Extra Session Of Congress In April Seems Certain

BOURBONS TO PUT OFF TAX LEGISLATION

Democrats on House Ways and Means Committee Agree to Postponement
PLAN ACTION FRIDAY

Roosevelt Expected to Call
Special Session April
10, Leaders Declare

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(UP)— Democratic members of the house ways and means committee agreed in secret session today to postpone all general tax legislation until the expected extra session of congress.

The full committee, including republican members, will meet Friday.
It is expected at that time formally to ratify the agreement of the democratic members.

Announcement of the determination of democratic leaders not to attempt to solve budget balancing problems at the present session indicated that a definite decision on a date for a special session has been reached.

It was learned that congressional leaders expect President-elect Roosevelt to summon congress in mid-April, probably around April 10.

"It was the sense of the members present," Chairman Collier said after the meeting, "that we would not consider a general tax bill at this session."

Collier and other committee members explained that this decision was based on the clogged legislative situation in the senate, now paralyzed by a filibuster, and also because of "doubt" of treasury estimates of the deficit.

Collier pointed out that according to latest administration statements, the expected deficit to be met next year has grown to $700,- 000,000, more than $200,000,000 above original estimates.

The chairman said the sentiment of the democratic members of the revenue raising committee had been virtually unanimous against any attempts at a general tax bill.
This agreement was believed to extend even to continuations of present tax rates, notably the levy on gasoline.

LAUNCH DRIVE TO DEPORT FILM STARS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—
A new drive to deport alien motion picture stars who have over-stayed their time in this country will be started soon in Hollywood by Assistant Secretary of Labor Murray W. Garson, it was revealed today.

Garson expects to leave for California tomorrow.

Garson, fresh from a campaign which resulted in the indictment of the bogus Prince Michael Romanoff in New York, said today that the campaign against persons prominent in the film colony has been in progress for several weeks.

A squad of investigators, experienced in the assembling of evidence against deportable aliens, is checking credentials of every forigner in Hollywood, he said.

Garson has been active in deportation proceedings for the past two years and has sent hundreds of aliens back to Europe.

BOOTLEG KING OF HOLLYWOOD IS SHOT DOWN

Two Other Suspected Members of L. A. Combines
Also Are Killed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—(UP)— Eastern bootlegging interests were believed to have moved forcibly into Los Angeles early today when three suspected members of local combines were shot and killed.

Harry Meager, 40, described as the "big shot" of the prized Hollywood rum domain, and a companion were killed in front of the former's home.

It was learned that congressional leaders expect President-elect Roosevelt to summon congress in mid-April, probably around April 10.

"It was the sense of the mem-

RUTH JUDD ON STAND RELATES MURDER STORY

Screaming, Shouting Murderess Blames Halloran for Three Deaths

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 18.—(UP)— A screaming, shouting and sometimes hysterical witness, Winnie Ruth Judd, today for the first time told under oath her story of how she killed Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, formerly her close friends.

During her ultra-dramatic recital she accused J. J. (Happy Jack) Halloran, wealthy lumberman at whose preliminary hearing she is testifying, of being "responsible for the deaths of three girls."

Halloran has been accused of being an accessory after murder and it was under cross-examination with the defense apparently trying to bring out that she shot in self defense and Halloran therefore could not have been an accessory after murder, that she killed into her almost incoherent replies.

"It might be easier for Mrs.
Judd," Halloran's attorney said at one point, "if we cleared the spectators from the courtroom.
I am not trying to shield Mr. Halloran when I suggest this for he is as innocent as anyone in this - - -"

"He is not," the attorney was interrupted by a scream from the witness. "He is responsible for the deaths of three girls and I have only three weeks to live for the deaths of two."

Girl Applauded

The spectators in the crowded courtroom broke out in applause and Judge J. C. Niles threatened to order them all out.

Getting to the story of the actual shooting, she told first of going to visit with her two victims the night of October 18, 1931.

The two were slain in Meager's large sedan. Neighbors reported hearing four muffled shots and seeing the car career across the curb and crash into a lightpost.

Each victim had been shot at close range.

Police theorized that Meager, the driver, was shot by a passenger sitting beside him, who, turning, fired two more slugs at his backseat companion. Both were killed immediately.

Police revealed they had received an anonymous telephone call yesterday in which the caller threatened the Hollywood character was to be "put on the spot."

They believed Meager also had received the same call since he immediately moved his residence.

Mrs. Fern Meager, the victim's widow, said her husband left home alone a few hours before. She was unable to identify his slain companion.

The Long Beach victim was shot in the face. Heavy tire marks in the sand indicated his body had been brought to the bridge in a large car.

Chicago gang interests have been linked frequently with local bandits which has preyed upon many Hollywood film stars who have been robbed of their jewels. Police had said that the loot was returned upon payment of 20 percent of their face value to a Chicago
"fence." Only a few days ago, Betty Compson recovered jewelry valued at $341,000 when she received a baggage check and a note directing her to a local railroad station.
State Stimson would be present.

The meeting has been set for 11 a. m. on the day after Mr.
Roosevelt arrives in Washington on his way to Warm Springs, Ga.

Mr. Roosevelt is coming to the White House at the invitation of Mr. Hoover. The latter has not yet announced who else will attend the conference. It was expected, however, that Secretary of State Stimson would be present.

RECOMMENDS SLASH IN JUDGE SALARIES

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—Naming the judiciary as the "most highly-paid department of the state," the senate fact-finding committee today recommended reduction of judges' salaries and curtailment of other activities to effect a biennial saving of $588,- 600.

The committee, headed by Sen.
David F. Bush, Oakland, presented the first of a series of reports to the senate.

The committee recommended that supreme court judges be paid $8,000 a year instead of $12,000 for the presiding justice and $11,- 000 for associate justices. Justices of the district court of appeal would be paid $7,000 a year instead of $10,000, while superior court judges would receive a maximum of $6,000 a year, $3,500 for which would be paid by the state, instead of $4,000 as at present.

Forbes, who confessed the actual killing, is under sentence to be hanged.

WOMAN SENTENCED TO LIFE IN PRISON

OAKLAND, Jan. 18.—(UP)—
The romance of Mrs. Bess Nelson and her asserted paramour, Claude Forbes, ended disastrously today when Mrs. Nelson was sentenced to life imprisonment because she plotted with Forbes for the murder of her husband, Harry
A. Nelson, deputy Alameda county assessor.

Forbes, who confessed the actual killing, is under sentence to be hanged.

R. McCleary, Toronto, Canada, general manager for the company in Japan, was in the building at the time of the attack. He said an automobile stopped at the plant entrance as the saboteurs arrived. Its occupants distributed clubs to the gangsters as they filed into the building to make their destructive attack.

McClarey denied that any foreign employees of the company were injured in the attack.

"Most of the American and British employees were at lunch at the time," he said. "Otherwise, it would have been a miracle some of them were not killed."

Makes Escape

E. F. Walker of London told how he escaped through a window onto the roof of an adjoining building in company with his stenographer and a telephone operator.

Aurell, his wife and W. L. Malone, a New York and graduate of Cornell University, were lunching together and arrived on the scene just as police quelled the furious fighting.

J. E. Todd of York, Eng., aided Miss A. Aurell, sister of Aurell and a graduate of the College of Richmond, Va., in clambering to the roof of the building where they remained until police arrived.

The interior of the plant was a scene of havoc. Aurell said credit files and other records worth several hundred thousands dollars were destroyed or missing. Walls were splashed with red and black ink.

McClarey said labor trouble arose last August. Officials of the company remained hopeful of amicably settling their differences until in October, when the employees struck after demand for formation of a company union, no further increases in sewing machine prices, retirement allowances and alterations in service contracts were denied.

The Japanese federation of labor intervened and urged nation-wide action against the company unless striking workers were reinstated.

Police announced this evening they had arrested Acting Chief Matsuoka of the labor federation, with other labor leaders in Tokio in connection with the outbreak.

Henry Miller, 30, baker, of Palm Springs, was lodged in the county jail late yesterday by Deputies Art Bells and Ed Perry, where he is booked for investigation in connection with the immigration laws.

Sheriff's officers said he was suspected of being a deserter from a German vessel. He was to be questioned today by immigration officers.

The man was arrested when he drove a car into a ranch yard in the Santa Ana canyon yesterday, acted in a suspicious manner and was reported to the sheriff's office.

This "economy" legislature!

The assembly adopted a rule forbidding the substitution of rollcalls on uncontested bills, which will increase the session's length by 20 hours or at least one calendar week.

At an estimated cost of $2,500 a day this will cost the taxpayers of California an additional $15,000, it is estimated.

Heavy plush carpets in the governor's office are the cause of a favorite trick on the part of legislators.

By "scruffing" their shoes on the carpet as they walk along it, the process somehow "charges" them with electricity.

They then apply a finger to the nose or ear of some innocent visitor, and a visible spark jumps with a click from finger to ear.

Wearing a broad-brimmed "rub" straw hat, a young man with a big sack over his shoulders has caused no end of comment in the legislature.

He gets copies of bills and reads them through a reading glass.

SAY CHARGES OF COMMITTEE ARE DISPROVED*Fullerton Crew Loses Long Fight To Save Infant

Despite untiring work by members of the Fullerton fire department resuscitator squad, who worked from 2 p. m. yesterday until early this morning, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moore, of 804 East Central Avenue, La Habra, died at 7:25 a. m. today, of a congested lung.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the McAulay and Suters parlors in Fullerton.

Firemen worked in two shifts, with Lawrence Jones, Joe Atkins and Walter Stark in the first shift and C. O. Potter and Joe Atkins in the second.

SHULER URGES NEW PARTY AT CHURCH MEET

The two-day session of the Los Angeles district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, that convened in the Wesley M. E. church, South, yesterday and today, was brought to a close this afternoon with a missionary program. One hundred delegates have been in attendance.

Today's session included the election of delegates to the annual conference that will be held in Long Beach in July. This afternoon the Rev. W. R. Thorton, pastor of the Anaheim church, was scheduled to speak on "Conditions of Our Missionary Enterprise and How to Improve It."

The highlight of the convention was the address given yesterday morning by the Rev. Robert P. Shuler of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Los Angeles. He talked on "An Analysis of the Present Situation as Regards Prohibition and the Task Ahead."

Throughout his talk he urged the formation of a new political party that would be based on Christian-like moral principles and Christian leadership. "You can't just take the prohibition issue and win," he said.

He urged the church people to cut loose from the Republican and Democratic parties and become "Christian crusaders before the country goes from a moral collapse into an economic and governmental chaos."

He urged all the ministers to carry the idea of a third party into their various conferences.

Improvement was today noted in the condition of Mrs. John Kenneth Sine, 38, Los Angeles woman, whose tongue was cut out by an iron bar which pierced the windshield of the car in which she was riding last Sunday night. Her husband was killed in the accident.

She is in the Artesia hospital, where it was said today that she was much better. Hospital attendants said today she might live.

The same bar, which penetrated the skull of her husband, killing him instantly, struck her.

Her husband was killed in the accident.

Delming and Honer, in their recent open report to the supervisors said that the alphabetical system used by the assessor was in conflict with the geographical system used by the auditor and tax collector and cost those offices about $4000 annually due to conflict with their systems.

Makes Net Saving

Supervisor Jerome, it is said, asked the direct question as to how much inauguration of the present system of record keeping by the assessor had saved the office during the first year of its use.

Sleeper submitted data showing that the new system had saved approximately $6000. Other testimony, according to information received today was to the effect that the conflict of systems cost approximately $2500 through extra work by the auditor and tax collector, instead of the $4000 mentioned by the committee.

According to reliable sources, Jerome is said to have stated that this information should be conclusive proof of saving. The system saved $6000 through the assessor's office at a cost of $2500 to the auditor and tax collector, leaving a net saving of approximately $3500.

It is reported that Delming asked Sleeper if it were not a fact that he had advanced the efficiency of methods used in his office while other offices had failed to keep up with such advances. Sleeper, it is reported, said that it was true that his office had advanced its methods to handle the work more efficiently but that he would not make any statement relative to methods of the other offices.

Kay, who is considered the outstanding authority on affairs of assessors' offices, in reported to have told the committee that he has inspected the assessment rolls of Orange county thoroughly for last year and for this year and has found that Sleeper has complied with all requirements of the law and added that if the assessor wanted to do anything further in the matter of assisting other offices it depended on the time limit set up by the nature of his work, finance and equipment.

System Widely Used

The grand jury committee is said to have stated that the question of the legality of Sleeper's conduct of his office had never been raised but that what the grand jury was trying to figure out was whether or not the offices of assessor, auditor and tax collector could not devise a more uniform system to save the county money.

The system now in use in the assessor's office, according to Kay, has been adopted by 14 California counties and innumerable cities. This system involves use of an addressograph in preparing the rolls. In Los Angeles where the system is not in use it is necessary to employ 50 copyists and start a year in advance of the assessment to prepare the rolls. In Orange county the entire roll is prepared in 10 days.

Last week Menton had been requested by the supervisors to prepare an opinion as to whether or not the board had the power to adopt methods of procedure and require elective officers to adhere to these methods.

Menton read the law to the supervisors and others at the conference yesterday, it is said, where it declares, under the heading "Powers of the state board of equalization": "To prescribe and enforce use of all forms for assessment proper for taxation and collection of taxes thereon in this state and counties thereof." This, according to the report of Menton's information to the conference yesterday is conclusive, leaving the matter of what forms shall be used by the assessor and how they shall be used, up to the state board of equalization.

FULLERTON, Jan. 18.—Because of lack of attendance, no action was taken when chamber of commerce representatives of four towns met at the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

J. A. Knapp, chairman, said the purpose of the gathering was to provide means of studying the tax situation of Orange county and of California, that the report they might make would provide a base for the chambers of the county to back the grand jury and the state legislators in their efforts.

After a short discussion, the group adjourned to meet next Tuesday at 7:30 a. m. at the Ocean inn at Garden Grove for a breakfast session. Representatives of every chamber of commerce of the county are urged to be present.

ROTARY CLUB TOLD HISTORY OF AVOCADOS

Carl V. Newman, director of the Calavo association, was the featured speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club which was held yesterday noon in Ketner's cafe.

The speaker outlined the history of avocados in the United States, and also told of the derivation of citrus fruits. He recounted his recent visit to the original Fuerte avocado tree near Mexico City, from which a half-million trees have come.

He told of lime growing conditions in Mexico, stating that conditions in that country are more favorable to lime growing than in California, although there are certain sections in this state where they can be grown successfully. There is a movement afoot, he

HOOKS and SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

The destinies of Stanford University's football team, forsaken by Pop Warner when the venerable gentleman turned his face back to the east, will not be tossed into the ashcan just yet.

There is just a possibility that the Indians, coached by "Tiny" Thornhill and Ernie Nevers, may return to coast supremacy, which is a lot to say with those terrible Trojans in the same league.

Thornhill, whose light has been hidden under the Warner bushel for 18 years, helped Andy Kerr to set up the Warner system at Stanford before "Pop" left Pitt. "Tiny" had been line coach under Charley Moran at Centre college in 1921, and had fashioned the forward wall that stood Harvard on its pink ear.

Warner, unable to leave Pitt because of a contract, had accepted the Pacific Coast job and sent his own assistant, Kerr, along with Thornhill to install the wing-back machinery.

GAVE "POP" GOOD START

Thornhill and Kerr set it up so well that Stanford emerged as coast champions two years later, upsetting the University of California's dynasty.

Thornhill has gone along year after year, receiving not much of the credit when Warner teams won. The question asked by some football critics before Thornhill's recent appointment was "Is 'Tiny' aggressive enough for the job?"

For which Nevers had the following answer:

"Thornhill will surprise you with his aggressiveness. We who played under Kerr and Thornhill

10 years ago remember 'Tiny' as a dominant figure. He assumed a minor role when 'Pop' took charge in '24, which was the natural thing to do."

BOTH ALL-AMERICANS

Never went on to say that he would welcome an opportunity to assist 'Tiny' as a backfield coach.

The pair of them, Thornhill, a former All-American lineman, and Never an All-American back, may work out an offensive that will bring coast football a few severe tremors.

"These two will have something that Warner lacked, even though

"Pop" is tops as a football coach, and there's no getting around that.

There was always between "Pop" and the players the barrier of his reserve. "Pop" never has been a great one to make companions of the players. The old boy is not a good mixer.

But every man who has played football in the last 10 years at Stanford knows "Tiny" Thornhill

as a friend. "Tiny" has a fine, even temperament, a keen sense of humor and is still young at heart.

CASHED IN WITH GRANGE

Never, who was called by "Pop"

the greatest football player he ever coached, is one of those native Californians from Willow River, Minn. The big blond lived at Superior, Wis., until his high school days when his father decided to go to the Pacific Coast and raise prunes.

Ernie was All-American fullback in 1925. After his graduation he played pro football, cashing in on the golden gate of that period

by organizing a team in Florida and playing 25 games in one season against C. C. Pyle's team which ballyhooed "Red" Grange.

He played for and coached the Chicago Cardinals for several years.

Ernie went in for baseball and went as high as the St. Louis

Browns, but the game did not attract him as much as football.

George Sisler once remarked that Never appeared to be as good a pitching prospect as he had ever seen.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 18.

The city council last night unanimously agreed to lease the Huntington Beach Community golf course to Stricklin and Stricklin, the firm being composed of Oscar Stricklin and his son Carl, both residents of Huntington Beach.

City Attorney Ray Overacker was instructed to draw up a lease.

It was pointed out by members of the council in the discussion which preceded the agreement that the consent of the Huntington

Beach company, owner of the land, must first be obtained before the city can enter into a lease. Mayor

Elton Conrad advocated that a lease be drawn so that in case the operation of the golf club proved fairly remunerative, the city will share in the profits and transfer back in the city treasury the money that has been expended on the course.

Stricklin and Stricklin presented the only application. They will relieve the city of all expense and responsibility in the operation of the course.

OLIVER AMONG CANDIDATES AT OREGON STATE

Coach "Tex" Oliver's application for the Oregon State coaching position was filed by his friends and boosters among Corvallis alumni. It was revealed here today.

"Naturally I should be deeply interested in such a position if it were offered me," Oliver said, "but that is all I know about it."

CORVALIS, Ore., Jan. 18.—(INS) — New names today were added to the list of possible successors to Paul J. Schissler who has resigned as head football coach at Oregon State college.

"Tex" Oliver, coach of Santa Ana, Cal., high school, was said to have made a bid for the job. Oliver has developed some great players including "Chuck" Elshorn, Stanford; Curtis Youel, U. S. C.; Al Rehob, U. S. C.; Harold Pangie, Oregon State, and Jim Musick, U. S. C. The Santa Ana mentor played football at West Point.

George Philbrook of Nevada, Notre Dame player, was another reported to have made application and even the great Gus Shaver of U. S. C. fame, was said to be up for consideration.

The question of finances is holding back selection of the new coach, according to Carl Loddell, graduate manager. Schissler's successor will not be named until the state lawmakers now in session have informed the state board of higher education just how much the school appropriations will be for the next biennium.

There is no doubt that the appropriations will be reduced. It is possible the entire athletic structure at Oregon State may have to be changed to meet the conditions.

Meanwhile, Assistant Coach Lon Siner will carry on with the possibility that his showing combined with prevalent campus support will see the head coaching crown settle on his brow.

JONES OPENS 'PERFECT' GOLF COURSE

Patterned after some of the most beautiful and difficult golf courses in the United States and Scotland, the new Augusta National Golf club, built by Bobby Jones and associates at Augusta, Ga., is ready for play after three years of construction. The course, built for amateur and championship play, requires strategy as well as skill, gives the average player a chance, and is a tribute to landscape architecture over its championship distance of 6700 yards. Above is a view of the rolling green, with the clubhouse in the background. Lower left is the fourth tee, with No. 2 fairway in the background, and lower right is the third tee.

BILLY ARNOLD SPEED CRAZY

Racing Pilot Tells 'Inside' of Indianapolis Reverses

PREFERS THRILLS TO MONEY

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(UP)—

With that cherubic face of his, Billy Arnold wouldn't look the part even if he was dressed in dirty overalls, helmet, goggles and the rest of the working togs of the craft, and sitting there in faultless dinner clothes, slipping away at a demi-tasse, he looked more like a college freshman than the kingpin of American auto racing drivers.

"Honestly," we said to Steve Hannagan, who was piloting us toward Arnold's table, "honestly, is that kid the driver you've been telling us about?"

"If it isn't," replied Steve, "then the O'Hannagans aren't Irish. But if you think I'm trying to rib you, why don't you ask Eddie Rickenbacker and Peter DePaolo, here?"

As it turned out, our fears were groundless. It really was Billy Arnold, winner of the 500-mile grind at Indianapolis in 1930, and leader in the 1931 and 1932 races until something went haywire, spinning his tiny car through the concrete boundary wall at about 125 miles an hour.

It was about these two crashes that we wanted to ask Billy. We didn't particularly care to know how he felt as he careened through the wall with death at the throttle. What we wanted to know was why, after he had established a fairly safe lead, he refused to slow down and "nurse" his car along. Other drivers have told us that Arnold is aroused by the fact that there will be a lot of petty bickering over the question of whether he is to be paid more than the president of the United States or only as much.

But if you want the word today of a man who not only ought to know but does, Ruth, by his own admission, has never had a salary argument with the New York Yankees, though the years have re-sounded to acrimony and words by the hundreds of thousands have told and re-told the story with a sob in every syllable.

Not a great deal is definitely known of the situation this time and what little there may be is not without mystery.

Ruth himself made the announcement of the contract figure late yesterday. He never did that before. In addition, the testimony is that he returned the scorned document Monday night. Twelve hours later, Lou Gehrig hadn't even received his and didn't until last night. In other words, did Ruth miss the sign and start running ahead of the play?

"Westminster Will" Wanamaker scored a technical knockout over Jack Lujan, Whittier southpaw, in the special event. Referee Gilmore stopped the slaughter in the third after Wanamaker had massaged Jack's lung with a thousand punches. Lujan was game and tough, but he was through.

Doyle Richards' winning streak was shattered by another Santa Anaan, Benny Gomez, who got the decision after three hot rounds. Gomez had a shade all the way, and nearly put Richards through the ropes with a terrific right in the second round.

A Garden Grove beanpole named Indiana Jimmie Smith, decisioned Ed Orozco, Santa Ana, in three dazzling rounds. Smith's aggressiveness put him out in front. Just as the bell rang for the final stanza, Smith knocked Orozco across the ring and off the ropes to the floor. He was dazed, but not badly hurt.

Andy Lujan got credit for a technical knockout over Joe Palomino, the latter's eye being out so badly they stopped it in the second. Ed Rocco kayoed Johnson Martinez in the third, and Lopez outpointed Joe Pimental.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

EMBARGO

Mister Stimson had his first hearty laugh in four years when he heard about the Senate foreign relations committee report on the arms embargo.

Published accounts generally indicated the committee had swiftly fallen in with Mr. Hoover's recommendation. The president proposed legislation enabling him to prevent arms shipments to foreign governments if all other governments agreed to stop shipments from their own countries. The committee did not do that.

It adopted a clever little resolution of its own. The trick phrase in it provided that the president could act "after obtaining cooperation of whatever nations he deems necessary." That leaves it up to the president. Mr. Roosevelt might deem the approval of Afghanistan or Nicaragua or no nation at all as sufficient cause for him to declare an arms embargo.

The purpose of Mr. Hoover's measure was entirely lost.

The natural supposition would be that the secretary of state fixed it up with Mr. Roosevelt during their recent conference so that his (Stimson's) ideas should prevail over the president's recommendations. That does not appear to be the case. Mr. Roosevelt has said the subject was not even mentioned during their conference.

An easier explanation is the recent development of close relations between Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee and Mr. Stimson. Those who ride a horse in Rock Creek park early each morning report these two have been seen together frequently on the bridle paths. Mr. Stimson has publicly advocated the idea that the United States should act by itself, declaring its own embargo against arms exports regardless of what other nations do. That would open the arms market to foreign governments like France, Czechoslovakia and Poland, but it would keep America's head high.

It looks as if Borah felt that way also. It was he who offered the resolution in a secret session of his committee, which appeared to carry out Mr. Hoover's recommendation but carried out Stimson's instead.

Adding insult to injury, the committee disregarded an official Hoover resolution brought to it by Under Secretary of State Castle. He had it all written out. He was surprised to read in the papers what the committee did.

Mr. Castle has always been a Hoover man rather than a Stimson man.

KINGFISH

The trouble backstage with Huey Long's filibuster in the Senate was that everyone has the utmost confidence in Senator Glass. Senators have been letting him do their thinking on banking subjects for years. They know he has no tie-up with the New York financial crowd and he is fair.

While Long talked, the real opponents of the bill sat back and laughed. They would have had to be fighting if Huey had not carried the load for them. They Senators Keane and Metcalf, representing the views of the eastern banking group.

Long beat his breast until he was black and blue in defense of the people. He got more cheers in Wall street than he did on Main street.

STOCK EXCHANGE

The Kreuger and Toll investigation in the Senate was a mild Sunday school lesson on finance during its early stages.

The publicity agent for the New York Stock Exchange was present, but nothing developed there to keep him interested. His telephone bill to New York was very light.

The liability of the stock exchange is a matter for discussion, but it was not pressed at the hearing.

The inquiry was conducted with John Marrian as counsel. He is the man Lawrence Richer, confidential secretary to Mr. Hoover, promised to punch in the nose during the last campaign. He was formerly associated with Mr. Hoover in the commerce department, and supported Mr. Roosevelt briefly.

All the Wall street lobbyists have assurances that the inquiry will merely spend its $50,000 appropriated by the Senate before March 4 and quit. Legislation to curb the stock exchange along the lines suggested by Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign probably will be recommended.

The investigation is only laying the ground now for that recommendation.

Members of the committee have been more technical and less pointed in their inquiries than they were last year. They have no intention of eating the wolves of Wall street alive. It will all die a natural death except the legislative recommendations. They will be enacted some time in the future, but not any time soon.

INSULL

Strong efforts have been made underneath to prevent the Senate from going into the Insull case. A letter from a widely publicized democratic banker of Chicago has been circulated among senators. At least the letter bore the banker's signature and was supposed to be from him.

It claimed public rehashing of the Insull case at this time might have a bad effect on certain banks. He sang no good could come from such an inquiry, and urged that it be dropped.

JAPAN

Further progress is noted in Japanese diplomacy. Ambassador Debuchi called at the state department the same day that the Japs started converging on Jehol City from four separate points. He pointed out that was not an invasion. He explained Japan has a treaty with Manchukou (which is just the same as if we wrote a treaty with her). This treaty requires her to PACIFY Jehol.

So all Japan is doing in Jehol is PACIFYING the Chinese—with machine guns.

NOTES

Some prominence has been given remarks by Ambassador Mellon that war debts were out until Mr. Roosevelt comes in.

That was only a public reiteration of the private burial service.

The way you pronounce it officially is Rehoh, not Jehol.

You can take the word of the Japanese ambassador for that, and he ought to know his country is going to govern the city.

One thing that may have had something to do with the Huey Long attack on Senator Glass is that Glass opposed the seating of Long's Louisiana delegation at the last Chicago convention.

Republicans did what they could privately to help Long along. They think his antics will bring the first real split in the democratic party since Roosevelt gained control.

NEW YORK

By James McMullan

DEBTS

The New York Stock Exchange had a finger in the pie on the Hoover proposal for revision of the bankruptcy laws.

Allan Lindley and Frank Altshul—exchange big shots—were called to Washington in connection with the Kreuger & Toll investigation. They improved the shining hour by doing some missionary work on the side.

Wall street's interest in the matter traces chiefly to the probability of railroad reorganizations.

Local authorities feel strongly that the assets of two-thirds of the bondholders ought to be enough to authorize a plan.

The Cotton Belt affair left a bad taste and key people wish to avoid another situation where a few recalcitrant bondholders can block the wheels.

The Cotton Belt business had two unpleasant engagings.

Opposition to the refunding plan was chiefly inspired by a dubious firm of lawyers, who hoped to grab off the receivership plums. Also vice brought a greater reward than virtue. Those who held out got a hundred cents on the dollar, while those who cooperated got only a part payment in cash.

The Baltimore & Ohio refunding operation will go through all right. More than 75 per cent assets are in hand already.

The R. F. C. profited by its Cotton Belt experience, and this time did not set an arbitrary percentage which had to be met before the needed loan was made.

The New York aim is to see to it that minority dissenters must hereafter accept the same treatment as the majority.

RACKET

Another angle to the debt problem is the real estate mortgage bond racket, which would be stopped by the proposed changes in the bankruptcy laws.

Numerous cases have come up in New York where banks, insurance companies or other majority creditors were willing to string along with a property owner who was in difficulty and give him a chance to save his equity. But often holders of a single mortgage bond on which interest had been deflated forced foreclosure.

The racket works by frightening other bondholders into selling at panic prices. The complaining creditor picks up such bargains. This gives him a chance for large capital appreciation, as even now real estate values are not generally deflated below full mortgage value. But such proceedings wipe out equities and second mortgages. Application of the majority creditor principle would bring needed relief in this direction.

KREUGER

Informed Wall street is decidedly skeptical about that famous unpublished telegram from Donald Durant to Lee Higginson on the morning of Kreuger's death.

The dope is that the investigators could unearth plenty if they took the trouble to trace in detail the selling of Kreuger & Toll stock that took place that morning. There were people in New York who knew just what had happened.

STOCK MARKET

The old army game of trying to stimulate public interest by making bullish sounds is having another whirl.

There is a difference from last August. Then the real big-timers were involved in a concerted plan. Now the key action comes from half a dozen smaller and separate pools which would like to unload their September purchases. There are no signs yet that the fish is hooked.

DISCIPLINE

The fine of 70 curb market commission houses from $100 to $1000 for making unauthorized payments to the exchange's page boys caused quite a stir. Only about ten commission houses escaped.

The page boys in question are used to notify member houses of changes in bond quotations. The payments were inspired by competition. A firm making payments was likely to get faster quotation service than one which didn't, and time is a vital element in getting business.

The stock exchange itself is not free from similar practices. Its authorities are hopeful that the curb example will frighten the offenders into the paths of rectitude and avert the necessity for such wholesale discipline.

LONG

Comments on the Louisiana senator's $250,000 income tax assessment are met here by John Kingsbury Finerans' privately published book.

He says, "Estimates of profits Long has made from the governorship of Louisiana run from five to ten million, and the lower figure seems a very conservative estimate."

APPRECIATION
SUPERVISORS

Thanking the supervisors for declining to curtail services of the county health department, a resolution recently adopted by the Orange County Council of the American Legion protesting any proposal to limit this service, was read to the board of supervisors yesterday. The letter was signed by Glen A. Young, commander, and Charles J. Leimer, adjutant of the council.

The resolution limitation on health department activities that would halt immunization against communicable disease, curtail infant and school hygiene, control of communicable disease, or health education.

The resolution declared that it was the belief of members of the county council of the Legion that during this time of economic stringency, when a large part of the population is either unemployed or has suffered serious reductions in income, it would be extremely hazardous to reduce a service designed to decrease illness and death from preventable disease.

It also pointed out that elimination of immunization would take from the health department its main weapon for control of communicable disease without relieving the department of its legal responsibility for their control. Any arrangement that increases the cost of immunization unduly complicates it is certain to decrease the number of immunizations and lower the level of public protection, the resolution stated.

The resolution also pointed out that elimination of communicable disease control program would increase the danger of transmission of disease by school room contacts, jeopardize the safety of children and thus reduce the state's financial aid to schools.

MORE INCOME TAX REPORTS
TO BE FILED

Thousands of persons will be liable for filing income tax returns this year who have not done so in the past under the terms of the new income tax law of 1932, it was announced today by A. B. Pilch, deputy collector of internal revenue, at his office in the Federal building here, who has just received word to that effect from Calen H. Welch, collector of internal revenue.

This is because the exemption for married persons and heads of families has been reduced from $3500 to $2500 and for single persons from $1500 to $1000, it was pointed out.

Income tax blanks were mailed to each person, partnership and corporation who made a return for 1931. However, thousands of persons will be liable who did not and will not receive blanks unless they apply for them, as their names are not on the mailing list, it was explained.

Deputy Collector Pilch pointed out that failure to receive a blank does not relieve any person from penalty for delinquency, and requests all persons liable under the new law to call or write to the internal revenue department in the Santa Ana Federal building, where forms may be obtained.

Returns must be filed on or before March 15, 1933, and at least one-fourth of the tax paid, or be subject to penalty of 25 per cent.

Many business houses now are making annual reports required by the government listing the names of employees and amounts of salaries paid during the year.

WEDDINGS
FASHIONS
HOUSEHOLDJoseph Hergesheimer Novel Argued by Ebell Juniors

Conflicting opinions regarding Joseph Hergesheimer's attitude toward the characters in his recent novel, "Tropical Winter," betrayed members of the Junior Ebell Book Review section into a brisk discussion following Mrs. Leland Finley's summary of the work of fiction. The section's number was swelled to 20 last night, members and guests meeting in the home of Mrs. Gail Jordan, 1727 North Main street.

In presenting the review Mrs. Finley expressed the conviction that the author was sympathetic with the people whom he described, contrary to published reviews quoted in which Mr. Hergesheimer was accused of "vicious intent" in his character sketches. The book discussed was published in magazine form under the title "Soires de Palm Beach," it was pointed out.

A sketch of Wilma Cather's life was submitted by Miss Nelle Bales, Miss Cather having been selected as the section's "February author." Members will meet for a review of her work in the home of Mrs. Stanley G. Anderson, South Birch street, with Miss Nelle Bales serving as assistant hostess. Those planning to attend future meetings are requested to notify their hostesses.

Present last evening were Mesdames Leland Finley, Joe Ogle, Kenneth Conner, Glenn Mathis, Moonaw, Francis Selway, Lyman Farwell, Raymond Harris, Stanley Anderson, Lyle Kelley, George Glover, Charles Dawes, Horace Leeding, Albert Harvey, James Eugene Walker; the Misses Nelle Bales and Lucille Harboote, and the hostess, Mrs. Gall Jordan.

Announcements

The League of Women Voters will meet Friday at 2 o'clock with Mrs. George Sharp, 222 Orange avenue. All members are urged to attend and to bring friends. Each person attending is requested to bring something for the white elephant sale.

Pegasus club members are to be entertained tomorrow afternoon at 1:45 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Frank Was, 617 Orange avenue. Original contributions to the program will be on the general theme of "Today and Tomorrow."

F.A.U. Lodge members are anticipating an interesting session Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in Modern Woodman Hall, for the newly installed officers are to conduct the business meeting. This will be followed by a social program with games and features in which each member may have a part. Both program and refreshments will be in charge of a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wiley Harris and Mrs. Darlie M. Hunton.

When Ebell Garden section presents J. A. Gooch of the Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, as the speaker tomorrow afternoon at a meeting open to the public, in Ebell auditorium, arrangements also have been made for a special art exhibit in connection with the address on roses and their culture. For this exhibit, flower and garden paintings by Mrs. Maude Perkins will be shown, together with vases, jardinières, and other flower receptacles, hand-painted in original designs by the same artist. Mrs. Perkins has aroused much interest with her studies in oils, not only in the general style but in landscapes, notably the high Sierras. Ebell members and

New Semester

Santa Ana Woman's club members divided their interest between two programs yesterday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. J. Jacobs, 1418 North Main street, with that of the Educational section, directed by Dr. Evaline Peo, followed by the general club meeting with Mrs. William Wells, vice president, in the chair.

Mrs. Jacobs had made her home very attractive for the afternoon session by using cut flowers and growing cyclamen. Some 40 club women assembled for the study program, which began at 1 o'clock, with Mrs. C. H. Stanley presiding until the arrival of the Educational section leader, Dr. Peo. Taxation was the general subject and Mrs. A. G. Green had prepared an excellent paper on "Favorable, State, County and City Taxes," which was followed by one equally informative by Mrs. Stanley on "Levying Taxes."

The study will be continued at the February meeting, when Mrs. William Whitehead will discuss "Inheritance Taxes." Mrs. Croce will introduce another study subject with her paper on "National Parks."

Fine Program

For the general club session, beginning at 2 o'clock, Mrs. E. C. Wilson had been asked to repeat her program on "Public Carriers," which had achieved so much success a year ago. Centering on the mails, Mrs. Wilson traced the development from the days of the pony express through all the early history of the country to the present era of mail planes. Her paper was really a history of the growth and development of the nation, and was an enthralling and authentic history, which clubwomen had with appreciative interest.

This interest was expressed during roll call, when each one recited with some significant fact in the paper which had held her attention.

There were musical features to complete the pleasant program. Little Miss Olive Schwetzer, pupil of Miss Leonora Tompkins, honorary club member, playing with unusual expression and technique, Schubert's "Hark, Hark the Lark"; a clever interpretation of a negro harmonica number, and the gay and dancing composition, "The Elf." Mrs. J. G. Limbird of the club membership added another pleasing piano solo, "Poet and Peasant Overture," by Suppe.

Coming Meetings

Business features included the announcement of the Social section meeting on Tuesday, January 24, with Mrs. E. C. Wilson, 620 Orange avenue, with Mrs. M. C. Williams and Mrs. Ruth Hiegh as co-hostesses. The program of games and contests will begin at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. R. C. Harris talked briefly in the Orange County Health camp, and the club voted the sum of $10 to that cause. On January 31 the club will be entertained in the home of Mrs. Frank Ely, 201 East Ninth street, with a Child Welfare benefit luncheon at 12:30 o'clock, for which women will be asked to bring their own table service. Mrs. Ely will be assisted by Philanthropic section members as co-hostesses.

The February anniversary dinner will be held on the seventh, at the Green Cat cafe, and early reservations will be asked for that event. They are to be made through Mrs. W. H. Kuhn, No. 334-W.

Mos

After votes had been counted it was found that Miss Jeanette Lutes had been elected president of Moaws when that organization met in Garden Grove in the home of Miss Gertrude Jentges. Miss Jentges was reelected vice president, and Miss Kay Gorath, publicity chairman, while Miss Jean Leive was named secretary, and Miss Vivian Rogers, treasurer. ### COUNCIL CONSIDERS PLAN TO PROVIDE STORM DRAIN WORK; GAS ENGINE COST REPORT DUE

ORANGE, Jan. 18.—Tests being conducted at the city water plants on costs of the production of energy, will determine the program to be established in operating the plant, it was brought out at a meeting of the Orange city council yesterday. Peter McLaren, of the Southern Counties Gas company, was present, and told councilmen that on the completion of the tests the gas company would present a detailed report of gas engine costs to the council.

A resolution was passed whereby $40 was appropriated to the California League of Municipalities to support a movement opposing the diversion of the gasoline tax fund to the state general fund. A meeting is to be held at San Gabriel February 9 by representatives of the league, it was announced.

The city council voiced a protest against taxing of city owned public utilities by the federal government, a measure which was brought to its attention by the League of Municipalities.

C. C. Bonebrake, city engineer, presented a plan for the extension of the storm drain from Orange street to Center street, both as a city improvement and an unemployed relief measure. By his plan it was proposed to do all of the work by hand, providing work for 10 to 15 men for a period of several weeks. It was proposed to change the crews of men every three or five days.

Plans for the drain would cost about $675 and the entire project including small pipe, about $3500 to $3800, Bonebrake said. The street superintendent said that he estimated the cost of the work at about $1 a linear foot and that he considered that it would be better to run the drain under the sidewalk rather than in the street as there would be less expense attached in removing the sidewalk.

After a survey of the city funds which could be used for this purpose the matter was taken under advisement. The plan to extend the drain for but one block also was discussed.

George Sherwood, city superintendent of schools, reported that the sum of $217.4 remained in the fund used to finance city playgrounds during the summer months. Mr. Sherwood asked for the establishment of a sixth playground next summer at the Cypress school and stated that the program last year had been most successful, with an aggregate attendance at the five centers of 5784 children or 230 daily for a period of five weeks from July 25 to August 26. College students worked for $5 a week and the director, Stewart N. White, for $25, Sherwood said.

A report of the financial condition of the board was given by W. W. Perry. Mrs. Joseph Thacker, a returned missionary to Latin-American countries, reported on the progress of the Sunday school established recently in the church at the corner of Orange street and Maple avenue. The Sunday school convenes at 2:30 p. m. and 45 children are now enrolled, she said.

The El Modena Mexican church, which has been remodeled, was inspected. A program was given by an orchestra composed of Mexican young men of Santa Ana. Orange and El Modena, who played "La Estrella," "La Golondrina" and other favorites.

Special guests included the Rev. L. V. Lucas, the Rev. J. S. Sorenson, the Rev. Joseph Thacker and Judge A. W. Swayze.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KING

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. © 1933 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

When Duncy broke right through the ice, he shouted "Help!" real loudly, twice. Wee Windy rushed up close to him and cried, "What we do?"

"It's certain we can't go too near, or we'll be in with him, I fear. The ice is thin in that spot and I know we'd break right through."

Then Duncy, to his relief, found, while he was splashing all around, that it was not so very deep. "Why, I can stand," said he.

"However, I'll catch cold, no doubt, if someone doesn't help me out. I'd crawl out on the ice myself, but it's too smooth for me."

"Just watch! I cannot get a hold!" And then a bunny, brave and bold, exclaimed, "Stand back, you Tinymites. I have a dandy plan."

"I'll soon have Duncy on the ground with us, where he'll be safe and sound." And then, to get a big snowshoe, the little bunny ran.

He pushed the snowshoe right up near to Duncy and said, "Have no fear! I'll spread this shoe across the ice and you can climb aboard."

"Then we will pull you out of there and that will end your sudden scare." "Three cheers for Mister Bunny," all the happy Tinyites roared.

Wee-Duncy promptly took a hold and climbed out, as he had been told. In no time he was safe and sound. "Hurrah!" one Tiny cried.

"We'll build a fire to warm the lad. The heat, I'm sure, will make him glad. If he will stand up close enough, his clothes soon will be dried."

The flames soon roared up toward the sky. In half an hour the lad was dry. "Oh, I feel better," he exclaimed. "I was chilled through and through."

Then to the bunny he cried out. "You bravely saved my life, no doubt. I hope the time will come when I can do something for you." (Copyright, 1933, NEA Service, Inc.)

Council Declines To Reconsider Action On Judge

MASS MEETING ON RECALL SET IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Jan. 18.—Fullerton city councilmen refused to reconsider their action in asking for the resignation of Judge Halsey I. Spence, last night. Four hundred citizens attended the meeting, some satisfied with the act, other mumbiling that recall proceedings will be started tonight when a mass meeting is held at the Wilshire school.

Early in December, councilmen voted three to two for declaring the office of city Judge vacant January 1.

Petitions were circulated the next day and at the second council meeting in December were presented, asking that councilmen reconsider their action and retain Judge Spence. Councilmen Potter, who had made the motion, replied that he would like to have T. K. Gowen present before he made a reply to the petitions. Councilmen Potter, Gowen and Bert Annin had voted for dismissal and Mayor William Hale and Ted Corcoran had voted against it.

At the December meeting it was agreed to await until Councilman Gowen returned and to keep Judge Spence in office until February.

Last night, Harry Maxwell, who had presented the petitions with 1500 names at the earlier meeting, again presented the case urging the council to reconsider the action. Mayor Hale, declaring he wished something might be done to bring about peace, asked for a vote, declaring he would entertain a motion to reconsider the action. No motion following, the action stood, making the office of Judge Spence vacant.

Hubert Dawson spoke a few words, urging councilmen to reconsider the action, as a means of bringing peace and harmony into civic life again.

As councilmen took up their regular line of business, groups of men met about the hall, quietly talking, and the whispered call to a mass meeting at the Wilshire school auditorium was heard. It will be at 7:30 o'clock tonight for the purpose of starting recall petitions against the city council.

Business completed by the council last night included ordering two goose-neck lights for West Ash and West Oak streets and granting permission to open two pool rooms.

On request, councilmen consented to reversion of blocks 409 and 455, in Buena Park, back to acreage.

Reports Given At Welfare Session

A Girl's Periodic Pains

GIRLS who are developing into womanhood and women in middle life—in fact, women of all ages, should take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to smooth their way. Also for those suffering from weakening drains and for pains in the side, headache and nervousness. Mrs. Lois A. Carlinger of 258-12th St., Riverside, says: "When I was a girl, I used to have many days due to periodic pains. I would be confined to bed, would bloat, followed by severe pains so terrible I could not describe them. My mother urged me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and after taking but one bottle I had no more suffering."

CITY OFFERS $65,000 FOR WATER SYSTEM

LA HABRA, Jan. 18.—Rejecting all bids for materials and pipe and fittings, received for the construction of a municipal water system, the city council last night made an offer to the American States Water Service company of $65,000 for its entire system in La Habra.

Mayor Proud said the council would be pleased to have the city engineer and the engineer for the water company meet for a further appraisal of the property. The city clerk was instructed to write a formal letter to the water company making this offer.

The reading of Resolution No. 180, rejecting all bids for pipe and material was read. The ordinance concerning the enforcement of the provisions of the 18th amendment in La Habra was given its second and final reading.

TAX DISTRICT ON CLUBHOUSE IS DISCUSSED

MIDWAY CITY, Jan. 18.—The idea of a tax district for Midway City to cover the indebtedness on the Midway City clubhouse was advanced at a meeting of the local fire department Monday evening.

W. F. Menton, assistant district attorney, was present by invitation to the meeting and told of different ways of forming tax districts and of legal steps necessary before the district may be formed.

The clubhouse debt has been a question of some concern to local civic bodies for some time and it is felt by the chamber of commerce and fire department men that the Midway City Woman's club has done more than its share in covering payments on the building and that some move should be made to relieve this responsibility.

It is not the idea to force added words on the property owners without their consent and the idea will be put up to the people and if any great opposition is met the plan will be dropped, it is stated.

The firemen also planned a valentine dance, the proceeds of which will be divided with the chamber of commerce to apply on club debts.

Sid Miller, Harold Robertson and Murray Harrison were appointed a committee in charge of the dance. The chamber of commerce is to be asked to appoint two men to assist in the planning of the affair.

Business completed by the council last night included ordering two goose-neck lights for West Ash and West Oak streets and granting permission to open two pool rooms.

On request, councilmen consented to reversion of blocks 409 and 455, in Buena Park, back to acreage.

BREA UNEMPLOYED TO PLANT GARDEN

BREA, Jan. 18.—Seeds for the planting of a summer garden have been purchased, according to the report of George Himes, field superintendent for the Brea Unemployed association, given at the meeting of that group Tuesday night. Gardening will begin as soon as the weather permits. Himes also reported having been able to buy 550 loaves of bread at one cent a loaf and stated he will be able to buy at that price each Tuesday. The association, however, can use more than twice that amount.

Roger Purdie reported that the dance which was to have been given on Friday night has been postponed for three or four weeks. One reason for the postponement was the condition of the Craig hall following the deluge of rain through a leaky roof into the postoffice rooms.

Roy Wheeler reported on the entertainment to be given under the joint sponsorship of the association and the Brea P.T.A., stating that it would be presented two successive nights in the high school auditorium.

The next session will be with Mrs. J. D. Sturdevant at Anaheim.

A Girl's Periodic Pains

GIRLS who are developing into womanhood and women in middle life—in fact, women of all ages, should take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to smooth their way. Also for those suffering from weakening drains and for pains in the side, headache and nervousness. Mrs. Lois A. Carlinger of 258-12th St., Riverside, says: "When I was a girl, I used to have many days due to periodic pains. I would be confined to bed, would bloat, followed by severe pains so terrible I could not describe them. My mother urged me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and after taking but one bottle I had no more suffering."

Receipts Of $123,977 For Citrus Fruit

LA HABRA, Jan. 18.—Gross receipts of $123,977.60 for the year's business were reported in the annual statement of the Index Mutual association, given here today by T. E. Woodward, secretary, manager of this affiliation of the Mutual Orange Distributors. The meeting was at 1 o'clock in the Masonic hall and reports were heard by 45 growers. R. A. Wheatley, president, conducted the meeting.

Talks on conditions in the citrus industry were given by C. P. Earley, general manager, and other officials of the Mutual Orange Distributors.

Receipts to the house were 10 per cent greater than for 1931. Woodward's report stated, and the association has grown 10 per cent in acreage in the last year. In addition to these items, Woodward also noted that the concern furnished payroll of $31,315, all to local employees.

Several improvements were made to the house in the season under reports. Humidifiers and ventilating fans were added to the lemon storage equipment, and a pony size, a packed box conveyor and additions to sizes were improvements to the orange department.

Woodward sees a generally lighter orange crop in Southern California in 1933 as compared with 1932, but the prospects are not as bright as the Index organization will ship virtually as much fruit this year as was shipped last.

The entertainment was provided by a "one man orchestra" in person of Evan Townsend, who demonstrated how to play a harmonica, a guitar and a triangle at one time. Assisted by Jim Glover with "bones," he played again, and the two, accompanied by Mrs. B. M. Selover at the piano, presented a clover number, with Fred Johnson doing the clog dance.

The dinner was served by members of the Aid society of the Methodist church.

ANOTHER SPEECH

les inflicted in an attack by three men who had pressed and turned their heels in his eyes while he was prostrate.

Noted for the bobbing, weaving style than has carried him through more than 400 bouts, Shade attempted the same sort of defense when speakeasy bouncers became angered at his claim that he had been robbed.

The odds were too great, however, and the boxer was tossed to the pavement, where a policeman saw three men stamping on him.

The assailants fled as the patrolman drew near, but, Shade, who managed to stagger to his feet, still had plenty of fight left and issued a general challenge to the gathering crowd. He was finally persuaded to go to the police station, where he swung chairs until nine patrolmen, two detectives, a physician and a nurse wrapped him in the strait-jacket.

He will be arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct when sufficiently recovered.

The strength of the Orange line-up is found in Bill Kolkhorst, former Santa Ana jaysee star; "Cotton" Bennett and Joe Conkright, capable of giving the Dons a thorough test.

Wykoff will leave for New York Jan. 26, at the invitation of Dan Ferris, president of the A. A. U. and will run his first race on a board track Feb. 4.

"I expect to get licked plenty, but I can stand it," said the former U. S. C. sprinter who anchored the United States four-man 400-meter relay team to a new Olympic record last summer. "I've never done any indoor running."

Wykoff graduates from S. C. next week. He feels the indoor competition will be good training for him to become a coach.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—(UPI) — Lee Ramage, San Diego heavyweight, pounded out an easy 10-round decision over the veteran "Tuffy" Griffiths at the Olympic last night.

Ramage would have scored a knockout had he possessed more punch.

Starting fast, Ramage piled up a margin of points, using as his chief weapon of offense a slashing left. He was credited with seven rounds to three for Griffiths.

Griffiths' best round was the ninth when he staggered his youthful adversary with a ringing right to the jaw.

Griffiths held a four pound pull at the weights, scaling 186.

SOCIETY

Girls' Ebell Society Makes Plans for Parties

An evening dance on the evening of Saturday, January 21, was one of the future pleasant events planned by members of the Girls' Ebell society when they held their January meeting late last week in Ebell clubhouse. Equal interest was attached to plans for the valentine party which the club will enjoy for its February meeting, and for which members have been invited to the home of the general Ebell president, Mrs. Paul Bailey, 311 East Washington avenue.

The odds were too great, however, and the boxer was tossed to the pavement, where a policeman saw three men stamping on him.

The assailants fled as the patrolman drew near, but, Shade, who managed to stagger to his feet, still had plenty of fight left and issued a general challenge to the gathering crowd.

San Diego District Meets Here for Rally

The privilege of entertaining more than 100 members of the San Diego district, Standard Bearers of Methodist churches was experienced by Santa Ana First Methodist church the past week. This was in the nature of a rally, which began early in the evening with a dinner served in the main dining room.

Much of the success of the affair was accredited to Mrs. Wesley C. Golder of San Diego, district counselor.

She presided over the meeting, calling for reports from Yorba Linda, Riverside, Anaheim, Santa Ana and other cities of the district. The interesting program had been planned by Mrs. Golder.

Contributing to the effective setting for the dinner were large baskets of pepper boughs arranged throughout the room. The committee in charge of decorations, including Mrs. A. H. Theel, Mrs. Warren Freeman and Mrs. Charles Blackburn had secured sweet peas, tiny ilies and other dainty flowers for decking the tables, with ferns and much greenery competing a charming effect.

Dr. George A. Warmer, pastor of the host church, led in prayer. Community singing was led by Miss Florence Ulrich.

Grace Pepper Smith, returned missionary from India, was the speaker of the evening. Dressed in native costume, she displayed clothing, household accessories, and other articles peculiar to the Hindu. There were pipes, bottles, lamps, etc. in her collection. In closing, she declared that mission work in India has just begun.

Mrs. Collison of Pasadena, president of Young People's work, gave a talk. Miss Helen Robb played a piano solo, "Prelude" by Rachmaninoff; the Misses Catheryn and Claudia Zumwalt, Mrs. Oscar Cook and daughter, Norma, and Thelma

THE POWER OF THE ORGANIZATION
VS. THE TAXPAYER

In spite of our difficulties in paying taxes, and in spite of the fact that there has been such a reduction in income, and a lowering of prices of commodities, it is interesting to note the difficulties that various bodies in public affairs have in reducing expenses and particularly salaries.

As we have observed time and again, we are pretty much governed or controlled by special organizations and special interests, who make themselves felt at any time, when it is proposed to make cuts in expenses. It is a disagreeable duty for any man in official position, whether he be in a private organization, or public, to cut down on the income of individuals and firms.

And when there are special groups that are heard from against these cuts, and there is nobody representing the great mass of taxpayers and citizens generally, the representatives feel they cannot be blamed if they make the cuts as small as possible, or in cases where there is a proposed cut, and there is no evident demand by the people for the cut, and an organized demand against it, if they conclude that this organized demand represents the folks generally. Yet the representatives were elected by the people to represent them, and it may be to represent them they must go against these special organized interests.

There are now few business men or salaried people who have not within the last three years, had cuts from twenty to forty and some of them fifty per cent. To be sure, it just had to be done in order for things to function, and in some cases, the business men have been cut because of lack of business, but there is little disposition on the part of officials, except those who feel the responsibility very deeply, to graciously accept the inevitable.

A good business house will take cognizance of the conditions in the future, and will make adjustments, so as to face the future with as high degree of certainty of continuing as is possible. Business may pick up during the coming year, so that we will have plenty of tax money. But if the tendency remains the same, there will be a very serious condition in our public treasures.

In some cases already, schools must reduce their period of sessions. Business men, under similar circumstances, would cut their expenses, so as to continue to operate during the entire period, and not shut down for a part of the time. For it would be better for the scholars, better for the teachers, better for everyone in connection with the situation, to continue to operate, even though the same income be distributed over the entire period, than to sustain salaries at too high a rate, and then cut down in the number of months served.

Public officials who are forced to take action should be supported, whether in the legislature, on the Board of Supervisors, or on the school board. There is probably no position filled by a public official in the state of California today that could not be equally as well filled, and probably by the same individual, at an amount not to exceed 65 or 70 per cent of the amount now paid.

There are those, to be sure, who maintain that to reduce salaries is to reduce purchasing power, and thereby hurt the merchants. If business generally could be maintained on that basis, there would be some excuse for public corporations to carry on with that in mind. But when the public money alone is being used in that manner, the burden is increasingly heavy upon the taxpayers who are least able to bear it, and who are running into foreclosures.

Some cuts suggested in our own county are only slightly more, if any more, than the actual raise that has been made within the past three or four years. Anyone today whose salary has not been cut over 20 per cent, is receiving actually more money, in terms of purchasing power, than he was receiving three years ago, which means practically he is receiving an increase, and an increase at this time is certainly not fair to the stockholders or the taxpayers.

Despite all the R. F. C. can do, failures continue among the stock and tomato can banks.

THE COMPELLING URGE

From New York comes a tragic story. There may be others equally tragic nearer home, though we hope that that is not so. An elderly man in the eastern city; a man almost blind and too poor to buy a new pair of eye glasses, dropped a nickel, as he thought, in the subway fare box. He was weary from a day's fruitless search for work. An attendant called him back and pointed accusingly at the large magnifying glass which shows up the nickels deposited in the box. The tired man couldn't see at what he was pointing. The coin which had been given him by an acquaintance and which he had taken to be a nickel was no nickel; it was a slug.

"I'm sorry," said the man, "someone gave it to me—I've no money, you see."

An officer arrested him. He was taken to the police station. There the police explained to him that while they were compelled to hold him he should not worry. The sight of misery had not caloused their hearts. They placed him in a cell but went once to reassure him. A second time they returned to him and found that he had committed suicide. Later the facts of his blindness, his poverty and his repeated efforts to get work, which led to discouragement and final loss of faith in humanity, were all verified at his home.

There are those who become weary of the discussions of the necessity for planning, and technocracy and the urge and responsibility of doing some serious thinking on the present problems of society. It is such stories as this one that banish all thought of weariness, or laziness. Such suffering drives us forward. Mankind cannot think of rest with such misery in the world. In the face of such a story, however, there are those who may feel repulsed by discussion to the point of disgust, for it seems that we should give one or two of the more moderate proposals a trial. We are a nation of doers. When one's heart is touched one becomes impatient of prolonged discussion. We can correct mistakes in the future more easily than we can endure such misery on our conscience.

THE ORIGINAL "FORGOTTEN MAN"

A prisoner who has been in a Brooklyn jail for two years asked that he either be sentenced or turned loose. He made his request respectfully. In two years one is cowed. And one nurses a hope for freedom, and does not risk trouble arising from contempt of court. The authorities looked into the case and found that the man had been forgotten.

In the spring of 1930, the man was brought into court on a charge of burglary. Appearing before Judge W. B. Vause, he pleaded guilty, and was remanded to await sentence.

Judge Vause himself became involved in scandal, left the bench and eventually landed in Atlanta prison for using the mails to defraud. Nobody else paid attention to the prisoner. Therefore he remained in jail. We hope that the case is a freak.

At least this prisoner has earned the right to claim that he is the original "forgotten man."

There will not be another total eclipse until the year 2017. But then there's always the stock market.

PHILIPPINES BILL PASSED

The Philippine Islands have been granted their freedom, conditionally. This provision will go into operation in 1945, and only after a Constitution has been prepared by the Filipinos that is satisfactory to the United States.

It may be that if the Filipinos themselves feel it is wise to break away from the United States during this period, they may put up a Constitution that would be unsatisfactory to this country.

Senator Borah said, very wisely:

There will never be an ideal time to grant the islands their freedom and neither will there be an ideal bill.

The great ultimate object, however, is fulfillment of the American obligation made in the beginning to grant independence to the Philippines. The longer we delay, the more difficult will the task become.

Puss "Rides the Rods"

Christian Science Monitor

Going to look at a king may be a story-book cat's idea of adventure, but Betty of Hoboken preferred to "ride the rods" on the Lackawanna Limited. Nevertheless, even Betty, who for four staid years has been the official pet and mouser of the Lackawanna Terminal in Hoboken, N. J., is probably wise enough now not to repeat the escapade.

Betty really should have spoken to Station Master Henry Byrnes about her desire to see the world, for though he might not have been able to arrange for her to ride "the cushions"—as they say in the fraternity of tattered and ticketless travelers—he would have got her some kind of a pass.

He might even have put her on the ferry to cross the river and see the sights of New York City, where not long ago vaudeville audiences chuckled at a song that began, "Where do you work, John?" and ended with the equally ill-fitting reply, "On the Delaware, Lackawanna!" In fact, had Betty remembered her patron, Miss Phoebe Snow, who, according to the advertisements, "always rode in spotless white on the road of anthracite," she would have saved numerous cinders in her own fur coat.

But Betty chose to mount the forward truck under the third coach of the outgoing limited like a seasoned hobo. Whether there was anything suggestive of hoboing in the name Hoboken is anybody's surmise, but at any rate a baggageman at Morristown, N. J., thirty-one miles on the way to Buffalo, espied a cat-size bundle of gray fur just above the car wheels as the train rolled through. At the next station the limited was flagged and the yardmen gathered to escort Betty from the train.

So surprised was she at this display of kindly interest that she fled in confusion to a darkened corner of the yard. There she had time for meditation. And her eventual conclusions are to be commended to boys who think of leaving home or to any others mistakenly attracted to the practice of stealing rods.

Here she was, nearly forty miles from home. Of course, she could find her way back somehow; cats always do. No doubt there would even be a lantern in the station window for her return. But that was a long way to walk. And one could not be sure of the fare or the companionship along the way.

So Betty allowed herself to be gathered up by friendly hands—and she rode back to Hoboken in a baggage car.

Surprising!

Oakland Tribune

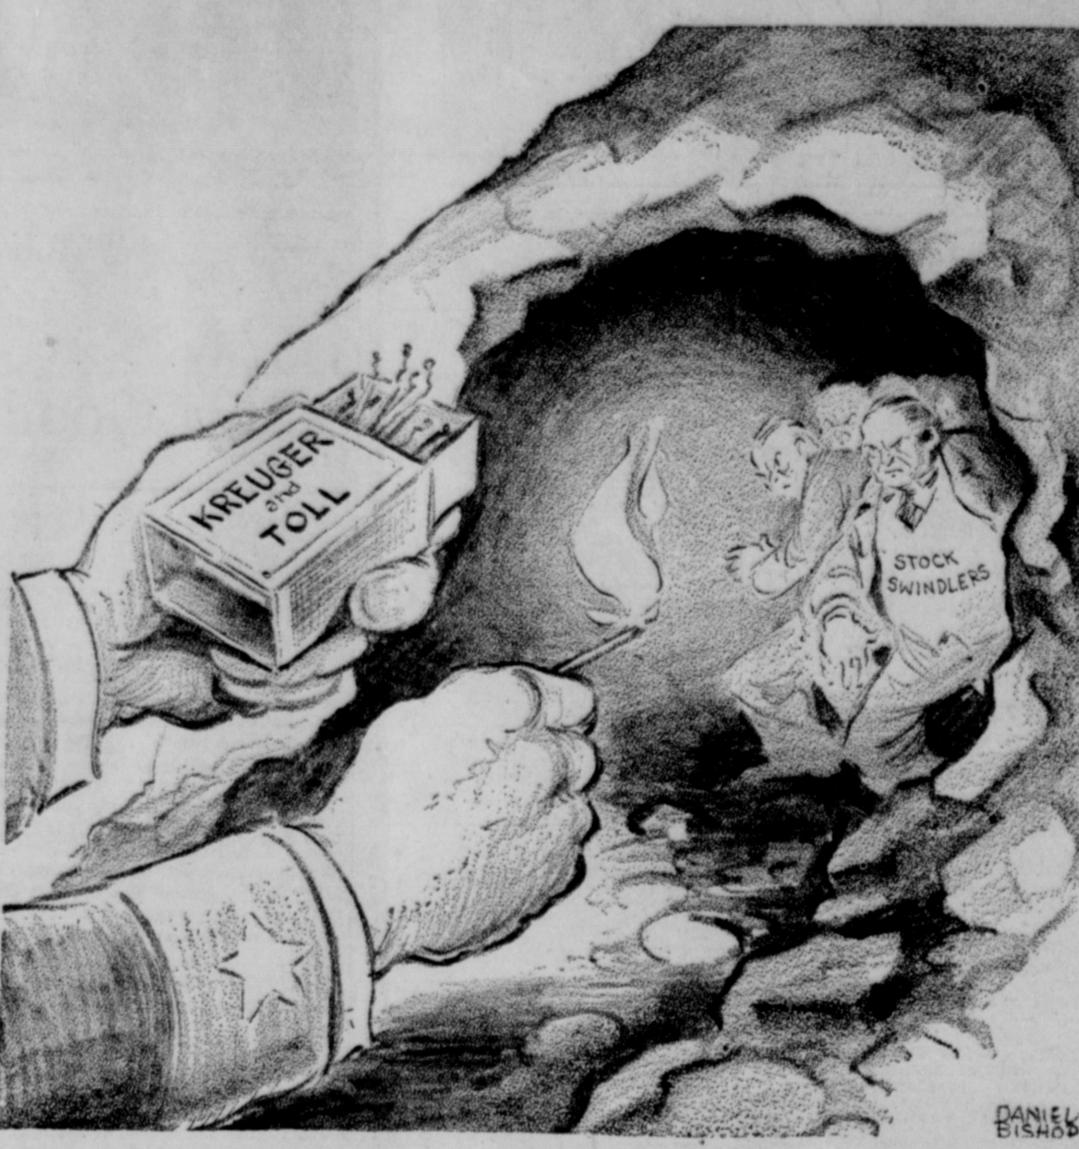

Possibly no news more astounding has come from an Orient, which right now is furnishing more than its usual share, than that which says that China, for the first time in 21 years, has balanced its budget.

To balance a budget in times of peace and prosperity is a task which has been beyond many countries. Here is China, engaged in a military come-back which impresses the world; suffering the same economic depression that worries other lands; faced with a decline in silver exchange; putting up a fight in Manchuria and elsewhere; giving to food relief operations, and—balancing a budget!

The Chinese Minister of Finance, who sent the news in a wireless to our Department of Congress, says hopefully, "an end has been put to borrowing for current operating expenses." He explains that the all but magic feat of balancing was done by consolidating the internal revenue system, converting the domestic debt, and reducing military expenditures.

The report is almost beyond belief, but if it in any way approximates the truth, it indicates that the Chinese, in their present troubles are much better prepared to carry on than Japan, which has a budgetary deficit of a billion yen. The Chinese armies may be forced to retreat, but they have large distances behind them and the costs of pursuit are heavy. In the end the issue may be determined by the budgets.

THE HEATHER IS DRY

did not race across the fields. Today the situation is the exact reverse.

The heather is dry!

The crowd is again capturable. The mass mind is waiting to be wowed by the apostle of the new. It would follow responsible statesmanship. It may follow irresponsible demagogery.

The man in the street is straining at the leash of old dogmas of politics and economics that have failed to keep hunger from his stomach, cold from his body and fear from his heart.

It is this new mood of the mass mind that has given Technocracy a nation-wide audience overnight. Such a mood is at once a grave danger and a great opportunity—danger if irresponsible leadership dominates it, opportunity if responsible leadership dominates it.

In such a time we must avoid the mistake of spending so much energy sneering at the notions of the scatter-brained demagogues that we have none left for serving the needs of the disillusioned masses that may be tempted to listen to him.

As the old Scotch phrase puts it, the heather was wet and fires

YOUR SISTER

Phil came crashing into the room calling, "Ma, ma," at the top of his voice. His feet got mixed up with the yards of curtaining his mother was sewing. The sewing basket came down with a smack-scatter, spill. The cat scampered under the couch and the terrier lifted his voice in shrill applause.

"Just like you. You can't come into the house without an uproar. Get out of here. Stay out until you can come in like a human being. If you would take pattern a little by your sister. You don't see her coming into a room and upsetting everything in it."

"O, all right. You're always praising Millie. She's perfect. I'm never any good. All right. You'll see, and away he went slapping and banging each door as he met it.

That night at dinner he spilled a spoonful of soup on his front. "There. Look, look, what you're doing. You're spilling the soup all over yourself. Really, I can't understand it. Your sister was the neatest child you ever saw at three years of age. Here you are, ten, and no better than an infant."

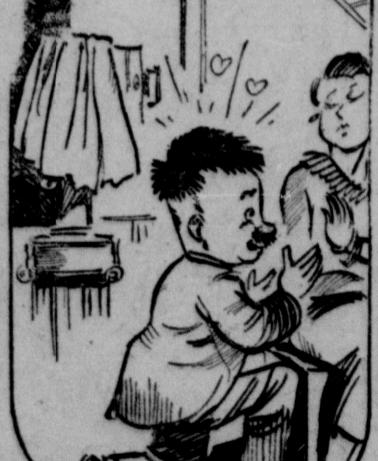

"That's right. You're always telling me that. You only see what I do. You never see what she does. You always pick on me. She isn't so much. Always showing off. 'Yes mother. No mother. Yes Miss Brown. Yes Mr. Snodgrass. Gee. She makes me sick, putting on the way she does. She—"

"Phil. Say that. I'd like to eat my dinner without your everlasting complaint about your sister. Now drop it."

Phil subsided into a murmur at his father's protest but after dinner he began again when he and his sister were left together to do their home work. Sister called out, "Mother, will you please send Phil out? He won't let me alone and I can't do my lessons. He's so mean to me."

"Phil, you take your work to your room and stay there. You are too disagreeable for words." Phil stamped upstairs threatening vengeance. Father looked after him uneasily. "Seems to me, mother, that things aren't going right with the kid. Seems wrong to me some-"

"Phil, you propose to a photographer's daughter don't be surprised if you get a negative!"

Little Benny's Note Book

There was a little white bag looking like a candy bag on the living room table when I came home from school this afternoon, and I looked in it and it was a candy bag all right with 3 pieces left, having round flat shapes like chocklit peppermints, me thinking, G. I wonder whose they are, maybe they ain't anybody's, maybe some lady came to see ma and left them here by mistake and that would make them findings keepings.

Wich just then I heard ma in her room and I called out, Hay, does this candy belong to anybody in this house?

Calling it so low it almost came out in a whisper. Properly being the reason why nobody answered, so I called again, Hay, whose candy is this in this bag?

Sounding a little louder, but not very much, and there still wasn't any answer, me thinking, Well, I'm going to call once more and that will be the same as avertizing in the paper.

Wich I did, calling. Does this candy belong to any person here or don't it?

Calling the loudest yet but still not being anywheres near a yell, and I stuck the bag in my pocket to take it up in my room and find out of they was really chocklit peppermints, and just then ma came in the room, saying, Now what did I do with those peppermints, once in a blue moon I find candy I really like and then I go ahead and lose it. Benny, have you seen anything of a bag with some candy in it? she said.

Where was it, what kind of candy was in it, what was the general description of it, I said, and ma said, Now look here. I'm not going over my whole life history to find out the answer to a simple question. Now answer my question and answer quickly, she said.

Well, G, how can I tell if it's the rite candy if I don't know the description, is this it? I said. And I pulled the bag out of my pocket and ma gave me a small slap for being so lame about it and one chocklit peppermint for finding it.
